An essential guide to relocating in

Australia

If you are moving house to Australia, there is a lot more to consider than choosing an international removals service. Our relocation guide provides additional information on choosing schools, working abroad, sorting your finances and more. Please note this information is believed to be accurate at the time of writing, but please check with our international removals department prior to your moving date.

Visas

In order to move to Australia from the UK, you will need to obtain a visa of which there are a number of different options to choose from.

A skilled visa application is open to people aged under forty-five, who have a good grasp of the English language and skills or qualifications that are on Australia's skilled occupation list (SOL) or on the Employer Nomination Scheme Occupation List (ENSOL).

There are a number of types of visa in this category, including Skilled Independent Migrant (subclass 175), Skilled Sponsored Migrant (subclass 176), Skilled Regional Sponsored (subclass 475) and Skilled Recognised Graduate (subclass 476).

The above range from temporary to permanent and none require sponsorship from an employer. However if an applicant cannot meet the Skilled Independent pass mark, they will require sponsorship from an eligible relative who lives in Australia or nomination from a participating state or Territory government.

Employer sponsored visas are another option to gain residency in Australia. Of these there are again many different variations; ranging from temporary to permanent. The most common employer sponsored visa is the Temporary Business Long Stay visa (subclass 457). One of these allows the migrant to work legally in Australia for between three months and four years.

If a permanent visa is granted, then the migrant and all dependant family members are allowed to live and work in Australia permanently and receive subsidised health care and social security benefits.

All visa applications require the applicant to be of a certain standard of health. In some cases applicants will be required to undergo health tests and screening, for which, they are responsible for the full cost - even if their application is unsuccessful.

Finances

It will make your move to Australia a lot smoother if you open an Australian bank account prior to leaving the UK.

You can set up an account from the UK with the Commonwealth Bank of Australia, Westpac or the National Australia bank. Your new bank will assist you with all your banking needs, including transferring money, managing foreign currency, credit cards and home loans.

Schools

It is compulsory for children in Australia to attend school between the ages of five and fifteen and there a diverse range of schooling options for parents to choose from including government schools, private schools, religious schools, boarding schools and alternative philosophy schools. Both co-educational and single sex schools are available.

After the compulsory education is completed, students are encouraged to continue studying to complete the Senior Secondary Certificate of Education in Year 12, which enables them to go on to university or attend a vocational training course. Alternatively students can study vocational skills in year 12, to provide them with a trade to earn their living from.

Australian schools are of very high standard, and are keen to welcome immigrants. Students receive an interesting, varied curriculum with excellent sporting, recreational and artistic activities provided alongside academic lessons.

Healthcare

Most migrants to Australia who hold either a permanent visa or citizenship are eligible to join Medicare - Australia's public health scheme. This entitles them to receive healthcare in public hospitals, subsidised medicines and out of hospital care.

Things that are not covered by Medicare include ambulance transportation, dental care, optometry and private treatments.

To apply for membership, take your passport and travel documents to one of the many Medicare offices that are situated throughout the country. Membership can be applied for 7-10 days after you arrive.

It is also possible to take out private health care.

Moving Your Pet

It is possible to take your much-loved dog, cat or horse with you when you move to Australia, providing that they are fit and healthy enough to endure the long journey and the thirty days quarantine.

Other pet animals such as chinchillas, fish, ferrets, guinea pigs, hamsters, rabbits, birds, lizards, mice, snakes, spiders and turtles may not be imported.

In order to import a cat or dog, you must apply for an AQIS import permit via the Live Animal Imports Program. Your application will be assessed and providing your animal meets the requirements, a permit will be granted.

The cost to import your animal can be significant. You will need to budget for vet's fees to pay for vaccinations and blood tests, import permit costs, quarantine costs, licensing and registration in Australia. In addition to this there are the airfare costs to transport the animal, and pet insurance. You may also wish to employ a specialist company to manage the process for you.

Australian Customs Information

International removals to Australia and other overseas are more complicated than moving house within the UK due to the Customs & Excise regulations applied to importing your belongings.

Overleaf is a guide to current Australian Customs & Excise regulations. Please note that information is correct at time of publishing but may change at any time. Hamiltons Australian removals department will guide you through all relevant Customs & Excise regulations prior to your overseas move.

When your container or part load arrives, you either need to be in the country yourself or nominate a third party to clear your effects. If someone does this on your behalf you may incur additional charges and you must arrive in Australia within six months of shipment arriving.

You will not be charged duty on goods providing that they have been owned and used abroad for at least twelve months prior to them being transported to Australia.

Any new items that have been bought within twelve months of importation must be declared to Australian customs. Duty and goods & services tax will be charged on new items.

- Household and personal effects are subject to physical examination by the Australian Quarantine Inspection Service (AQIS). It is strongly advised that all items that have come into contact with soil and vegetation - e.g. bikes, garden furniture and equipment, golf clubs etc are thoroughly cleaned prior to packing to minimise extra cleaning costs
- Fridges and freezers containing CFC refrigerants will be allowed entry when imported as part of a household move by a first time immigrant or a returning Australian who originally purchased the item in Australia
- You are allowed to import alcohol. This will be subject to customs duty and goods & service tax.

To clear your goods through customs we will require the following:

- A completed Australian customs form (B534)
- Photocopy of passport, photo page
- Copy of visa
- Inventory list (this will be completed by our removal crew).

Restrictions

- Please do not pack any food items within the shipment
- Untreated wooden items, skins, feathers
- Furs and tusks from endangered species are all prohibited.

Prior authorisation required

- You must obtain prior import approval for all motor vehicles - including: cars, motorbikes, motorised caravans, sit-on lawn-mowers and quad bikes). All motor vehicles are subject to duty and Goods & Services tax which is calculated on the value and age of the vehicle
- Boats, non-motorised caravans, trailers can be imported duty and GST free however a vehicle import approval must still be sought prior to entry
- Once imported, changes to the vehicle may be required to make it compliant with Australian safety standards
- Any vehicle that is shipped without prior approval from the Australian authorities is liable for re-export or destruction and a possible fine
- All motor vehicles must have their chassis and wheels steam cleaned prior to transporting
- Vehicles should only be shipped with a minimal amount of fuel in the tank.

Below is a list of documentation required to import motor vehicles:

- Australian customs form (B357)
- Vehicle registration form (V5)
- Sales or purchase invoice
- Service Record
- Import approval.

Firearms also require prior authorisation from the police department of the relevant state before shipping.
